Key Takeaways

- Convenience: The AutoEmpty dock means you never touch a bin again. For busy households, that saves hours a month.
- Budget: The no-dock Roomba offers deep savings, but you trade off the dock's key feature.
- Technology: All three models use AI-driven mapping, but only Roomba's newer boards support full multi-floor memory.
- Coverage: The Roombas clean both hard floors and carpets, while the Shark focuses solely on hard-floor surfaces.

Why the AutoEmpty Dock Is a Long-Term Winner

The dock removes a major friction point: the hassle of manually emptying the bin. With 6K+ recent sales for the docked Roomba, users aren't just buying a vacuum—they're investing in a maintenance-free cleaning routine. This alone can turn a good purchase into a daily blessing.

Your Decision Guide

If automation and minimal upkeep are your top priorities, the iRobot Roomba 115X Combo + AutoEmpty Dock is the clear choice.
