Why Are Robot Vacuums Essential in 2026?

The modern home is a hub of activity. Kids, pets, and busy schedules leave garbage, crumbs, and pet hair on every surface. With rising home-automation standards, a robot vacuum that cleans itself, mops, and syncs with your voice assistant is no longer a luxury—it's a necessity. In 2026, three models stand out for their blend of power, smart tech, and price: the iRobot Roomba 115X Combo with AutoEmpty Dock, the Roomba 115X Combo (without dock), and the Shark AI Ultra Robot Vacuum.

What’s the Cleaning Routine Like for the 115X & Shark AI Ultra?

iRobot Roomba 115X Combo Robot Vacuum & Mop

iRobot Roomba 115X Combo Robot Vacuum & Mop with AutoEmpty Dock

Both models aim to handle everyday messes, but their approaches differ. The Roomba 115X Combo tackles dust, pet hair, and light debris with a high-suction brush system and optional AutoEmpty dock that discharges dirt 24/7. The Shark AI Ultra boasts a three-stage cleaning system: suction, anti-clog brushes, and an advanced mopping pad, making it a solid choice for hardwood and tile. Both can be scheduled via the iRobot or Shark Maria app, but only the Roomba fully supports Alexa & Google Home voice commands.

Vacuum Power, Mopping Capability, and AutoEmpty Technology Facing Off

The Roomba 115X uses a 1200 AW suction head with a rolling brush set, ideal for hardwood and low-pile carpets. Its AutoEmpty dock provides a seamless dirt-dumping experience so the unit stays lightweight. The Shark AI Ultra packs slightly higher suction at 1350 AW, complemented by an anti-clog brush that handles pet hair and tangled fibers. While the Shark does not have a physical AutoEmpty dock, its 4-tab vacuum disc is engineered for efficient trash disposal, and the mop pad can be replaced easily in under a minute.

How Long Do These Machines Run?

All three robots are designed for a single-charge pass that covers a standard apartment (1,200–1,500 sq ft) in about 90–95 minutes. After each run, the Roomba 115X Combo (with dock) re-charges in ~15 minutes and auto-empties in ~4 hours; the standard Combo re-charges in ~20 minutes and the Shark AI Ultra takes ~25 minutes to finish a single cycle. If your nightly routine exceeds a 15-minute window, consider the setup that best fits your schedule.

Smart Connectivity: Which App Wins?

The Roomba's Sure™ app offers intuitive voice commands, zone mapping, and precise room scheduling. It also supports Amazon Alexa and Google Assistant. The Shark Maria app runs on both Android and iOS, giving you on-screen timers, a mobile map, and voice-control via Alexa, Google, and recently added Apple HomeKit integration. Firmware updates for both are delivered automatically—no manual click required.

Price, Warranty, and Total Cost of Ownership

The Roomba 115X Combo without the dock is the most budget-friendly at $139.99 (Oct 04 2026) (save 57% from its original $319.99). Adding the AutoEmpty dock pulls the price to $199.99 (Oct 04 2026) from $469.99—a 57% discount, but at the cost of an extra $60. The Shark AI Ultra, however, stays at $249.99 (Oct 04 2026) (original $599) with a 58% price reduction. All come with a 2-year limited warranty (Roombas) and 1-year warranty (Shark). When factoring in replacement brush heads (18 months) and mop pads (€5), the Roomba 115X Combo + dock offers the lowest lifetime cost for light users.
