Key Decision Factors for TV Buyers in 2026

- Screen size: Measure your viewing distance; a 50″ suits bedrooms or small living rooms, 55″–65″ fits most family rooms, and 75″+ works for large spaces or home theaters.
- Panel tech: LED LCD is common and cheap; Mini-LED adds local dimming for higher peak brightness and better contrast; OLED offers perfect blacks but is pricier.
- Smart platform: Fire TV (Amazon) provides extensive app access and Alexa voice control; webOS (LG) is known for smooth navigation and LG ThinQ AI.
- Brightness & HDR: Look for at least 300 nits for decent HDR in dim rooms; 600+ nits improves performance in bright spaces; Mini-LED can reach 800–1000 nits.
- Gaming features: HDMI 2.1, low input lag (<15 ms) and variable refresh rate (VRR) are ideal for next-gen consoles.
- Price: Set a budget and consider total cost, including any needed mounts or cables.
